Summary

Between the distinguished role of accountant and the supervision of data analyst, my path as a student at Cairo University's Faculty of Commerce was forged; not merely observation, but impact. I spearheaded the "Selecta" revolution, achieving a 29% sales increase, and gained strong financial expertise from Banque Misr and CIB in financial and import matters, which I currently apply as an assistant in requesting audits to control inventory and generate performance reports. Armed with business intelligence tools from ITI and Digital Egypt, IFRS and cash flow standards from HP, and Microsoft's marketing mindset, I have proven my rare ability to combine sales acumen with technical expertise in the risks of data that can affect its stability.
